

Robotise is a young robotic start-up based in Munich. We believe in our vision of creating a better world through robotics. We have the right product and we have the right idea ready. In the process of growing our team of passionate, self-driven individuals who want to join a fast-paced and dynamic start-up in the role of:

C++/ROS Software Developer (m/f)

Your Role:

- Specification, design and development of complex software systems
- Install, configure, test and maintain software and system tools
- Cross-platform development in C++ and ROS
- Monitor and test system performance as well as identify and realise solutions

Your Profile:

- Previous experience in robotics or keen interest of working in this field
- Intermediate to expert level in C++ and object oriented analysis
- Previous experience or keen interest in ROS (Robot Operating System)
- Fluent English required (oral and written); fluent German beneficial
- A solution-orientated working style and ability to think outside the box
- A highly self-motivated, self-driven teamplayer with a can-do attitude

Your Benefits:

- Intense training in ROS and the Fraunhofer navigation stack
- Close collaboration with founders team (serial entrepreneurs)
- Joining and shaping a start-up at a very early stage
- Independent, flexible working style with high responsibilities and opportunity to bring in your creative mind and experience
- Flat hierarchies, a strong team-spirit and regular company events

Location:

- Munich at „Campus der Ideen“ (Neue Balan) situated near Ostbahnhof
- New spacious office with easy access to public transport
- Swimming pool in front, roof deck, BBQ area, fitness center 75m

If working in a dedicated team which passion lies in driving ideas and creating innovation and becoming an important part of creating the future of Robotise, we would like to hear from you. Please get in touch via Email info@robotise.eu or send us a request on our homepage www.robotise.eu